AZULEJOS PORTUGUESES NO BRASIL

A coleção Primavera-Verão da Lazuli vai buscar inspiração aos azulejos Portugueses no Brasil.

O séc. XVIII, foi um período de grande exportação de azulejos para o Brasil. A estética aliada à escassez de materiais, juntamente com o clima quente e úmido, que dificultava a conservação e impermeabilização, levou a utilizar o azulejo para garantir a boa conservação das fachadas.

No início do séc. XX o pintor Jorge Colaço foi um dos principais responsáveis por painéis de azulejos no Brasil.

Apesar do azul cobalto ser a principal cor dos azulejos portugueses, a coleção vai ter muitas cores naturais.

A madeira e a corda estão presentes em vários modelos e conferem um ar tropical próprio do Brasil.

As linhas Vegan representam nesta coleção 50% dos modelos, uma aposta que começou em 2019 com tendência para aumentar.

PORTUGUESE TILES IN BRAZIL

The new Spring-Summer collection from Lazuli was inspired on the Portuguese tiles in Brazil. The XVIII century was a period of huge exports of tiles to Brazil. The esthetic allied to the scarcity of materials, together with warm and wet weather, which difficult the conservation and waterproofing, led to a use of tiles to guarantee the good conservation of the frontages.

On the beginning of the XX century, the painter Jorge Colaço was the main responsible for the painel tiles in Brazil.

Athought the cobalt blue being the main color of the Portuguese Tiles, the collection will have lots of natural colors.

The wood and the rope, are presented in several styles, and it gives a tropical air from Brazil.

The vegan lines, represent 50% of the styles in this collection, it was a bet that started in 2019 with a tendency to increase for futuro.
